Seniors lawn bowl, play croquet under outreach program

BY LAUREEN SWEENEY

Wednesday mornings this summer have become a special time for close to 50 seniors with limited mobility who have taken up lawn bowling and croquet on the high profile greens of the Westmount Lawn Bowling and Croquet Club beside city hall.

The club's new outreach program was launched this season after it received a $25,000 federal grant from the New Horizons for Seniors Program, club president Bruce St. Louis said last week.
The grant enabled the club to invest in specialized capital equipment to facilitate easier play. This includes a lawn mower that cuts the lawns even closer than before "and makes it easier to roll the ball," he said.
"The club contacted 23 local organizations in Westmount and immediately adjacent that specialize in providing various services ..... continued on p. 12

To be largest in Westmount $50k voted to install new Melville Bixi station for 23 bikes

BY LAUREEN SWEENEY

More choices are coming to riders of Bixis in Westmount, where the stations are among the most used in the entire network.
City council September 3 voted to pay Bixi Montreal up to $50,777 to install a new docking station near the bike path and the water fountain on de Maisonneuve at Melville. Holding 23 bikes, it will become the largest in Westmount.

There are currently 75 Bixi slots at five docking stations.
Last year, Bixi had proposed expanding the Westmount network by three new stations at a one-time operating cost to the city of ..... continued on p. 32

Arlington Gardens turns 10

From left, Arlington Gardens member Michael Morein and owner Nasser Boumenna. "What are these?" Morein had asked two minutes before. They are baby watermelons.

Arlington Gardens, a community-supported agriculture (CSA) business, turned 10 this year. Former Westmounter Nasser Boumenna named the business after his former street, Arlington Ave., in sight of where he now distributes fruit and vegetable baskets to members in Westmount Park just east of the Westmount Public Library.

"We have been going strong ever since we started," he said.

Members sign up for the plastic bins of fruit and vegetables, one each week for about 21 weeks from June to November. Members, many on bikes, transfer the food into their own bags. He does not sell individual items in Westmount and the Independent saw him turn away an inquiring would-be shopper when it went by September 5.

He does operate traditional produce stands at Atwater and Jean Talon markets.

What's his most distinctive offering? Kohlrabi, which Wikipedia describes as "a biennial vegetable, a low, stout cultivar of wild cabbage. It is the same species as cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, kale, Brussels sprouts, collard greens, Savoy cabbage, and gai lan." It is also known as German turnip.

Boumenna's farm is in Stanbridge East.

Colourful food trucks were lined up along Greene Ave. August 29 around lunchtime. There were three trucks parked on the east side of the street, close to the entrance to Westmount Square. The large Queen Bol Burrito had a Mexican flavour, but there was also tandoori chicken on its menu. There was a Montreal Dim Sum truck offering Chinese food and in the centre was a small truck serving Indian food. The trucks had been given parking August 8, 15, 22 and 29 while the Westmount Square food court renovations were ongoing. See also story on p. 6

Westmount Square food court re-opens

BY MARTIN C. BARRY

There was reason to celebrate at Westmount Square last week.

Staff and administrators from the company that owns the landmark office and residential complex joined customers September 5 to celebrate the official re-opening of the food court following a recent makeover. Gourmet Square, as the food court will henceforth be known, is now much brighter thanks to a new décor.

However, for those who have been regulars at the food court for years, all the old favourite restaurants are still there, although renewed.

The food court last underwent renovations 15 years ago, according to Rica Crecco, vice-president of Creccal Investments, which owns Westmount Square.

“I think we just wanted to change the atmosphere in here and bring in some brightness, just bring it up a notch for people to enjoy,” she said in an interview with the Independent.

“I think we’ve succeeded,” she added. “We’ve brought in a lot more lighting. We’ve modernized the food court. We’ve made it classier. And that’s what Westmount Square deserves.”

Atwater Metro station roof ‘a little behind’

The Société de transport de Montréal (STM) continues to work on the roof of the Atwater Metro station, which is located beneath de Maisonneuve Blvd. between Atwater Ave. and Wood. The street is closed to motorized through-traffic, but open to pedestrians and cyclists, as well as drivers using the Alexis Nihon parking lot, as seen here on September 4. Spokesperson Amélie Régis told the Independent in French the next day that the project is “a little behind” but that they “hope to catch up.” The street will re-open at an as-yet unknown date so as to be open this winter and will be closed again next year. The project is expected to be completely finished by December 2020.

Request comes from Montreal

$16,000 granted to mediation service for Cabot Square

BY LAUREEN SWEENEY

City councillor Kathleen Kez, finance commissioner, moved a resolution September 3 to contribute $16,000 to the Native Women's Shelter of Montreal for its community mediation service to help the homeless at Cabot Square.

The resolution explained that The Open Door, "a critical organization serving homeless people in Cabot Square, has been constrained to leave the area and leave a large homeless population without basic living services."

The aim of the mediation service is described as "to improve the sense of security, well-being and cohabitation in Cabot Square and its surroundings through a team of community workers using various tools to support the vulnerable population and residents."

The city's contribution "is a request from (Montreal executive committee chair) Benoit Dorais" that the Sud-Ouest and Verdun boroughs as well as Westmount contribute to this fund, Mayor Christina Smith explained.

Councillor Kathleen Kez reads the resolution September 3.

The city had planned to meet with a number of other stakeholders over Cabot Square issues last week (see story September 3, p. 1).

Operation of e-scooters questioned

Council hears calls for enforcing helmets, age, speed

BY LAUREEN SWEENEY

Some may love to ride the new Lime e-scooters, but calls were raised at the council meeting September 3 for better enforcement of regulations and obligations governing them as the city prepared to meet with Lime company officials this week.

"In the spirit of reducing carbon emissions, these are wonderful," Councillor Jeff Shamie said in opening comments at the start of the meeting. However, he added, he had received calls and emails from parents concerned about how these scooters are being used.

"I wanted to do a shout-out" about the need to educate young people that the scooters must only be used on bike lanes and streets (with speed restrictions), by those aged 18 or more and that they must wear a helmet.

Mayor Christina Smith echoed his feelings, adding that the scooters are a pilot project and "we are meeting with Lime next week to see how we can better manage them."

Zeela Kaufman of de Maisonneuve continued Shamie's concerns during the question period when she delivered an impassioned statement on the unlawful use of e-scooters.

"Many 14-year olds are operating them," she said. In addition, these children are using them in Westmount Park and on the sidewalk.

"As a pedestrian I am perturbed." Since the arrival of these vehicles, she felt her safety was challenged.

She called for an intensive education campaign and that rules be placed prominently on city bulletin boards, the city's website and elsewhere. She noted that to save lives, drivers and passengers in cars must wear seatbelts, so why were those on e-scooters not being restrained? "Please publish these rules."

"Thank you for your feedback," Mayor Smith said, reiterating the scooters were a pilot project but that she would share these points with Lime.

After the meeting some of those who attended commended Kaufman for her statement.

See Kaufman's letter on p. 11.

BUILDING PERMITS What's permitted

Council approves 16 building permits Sept. 3 including ex-nurses' residence

The following 16 requests for demolition, exterior construction, alteration or renovation were approved at the September 3 meeting of the city council on the recommendation of the Planning Advisory Committee (PAC). There were no refusals.

Approved

2307 Dorchester: at the former nurses' residence of the Montreal Children's Hospital site, a Category I building, to restore the doors and windows, masonry, oriel, cornice, and the portico according to the preservation strategy revised July 11, and to construct an addition to a portion of the roof situated in Montreal.

The Planning Advisory Committee recommended at its meeting August 20 that council approve the request with several conditions regarding windows and other features;

71 Belmont Cresc.: to remove green spaces in the driveway and to make a heated driveway provided the green space starting from the building wall has a 10-foot length and the green space starting at the sidewalk has a 7-foot length;

51 Delavine: to install a pool and do landscaping in the rear yard provided the passage joining the pool and rear garden has a minimum width of 2-feet, 6 inches;

368 Redfern: to renovate the existing home, add a mudroom addition, add an extension on the second floor, modify windows and doors, and build a new deck at the rear provided the two ground floor windows around the gas fireplace are double-hung as per the other new windows and the wood posts of the balcony above the mudroom are revised to either introduce a half-pilaster or are doubled-up;

218 Metcalfe: at a Category I house, to replace the marquee over the back door;

45 Roxborough: to add a second storey and to modify the existing building as approved by the Demolition Committee with stipulated conditions for the replacement program (see story June 25, p. 5);

3617 The Boulevard: at a Category I house, to add a fence on the property provided it be painted black as per the original;

72 Somerville: to replace windows and a patio door provided it has a wider frame

(both vertical and horizontal), as per the previous comments of the PAC in order to give it a more residential and less commercial look;

309 Melville: to replace the marquee and build a new terrace on the roof;

656 Murray Hill: to do landscaping, install a back fence, a retaining wall and replace asphalt with paving stones;

30 Thornhill: to repair the staircase and replace the railing;

105 Sunnyside: to replace the garage door provided it is made of wood (interior and exterior) without any cladding;

364 Kitchener: to replace windows and a canopy over the front door provided the roof material of the new canopy is either copper or zinc;

3001 St. Antoine: to replace windows;

634 Sydenham: landscaping in the back yard;

4846 Sherbrooke: to add a door.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS
MEANS SEEING EACH OTHER

I have just read your editorial piece titled “Hong Kong: you have friends” (August 20, p. 6).

Some Hong Kong fellows have uploaded it to Facebook and it is circulating well among us. It is very heartwarming to see support from a stranger from a city far away. From the bottom of my heart, I would like to thank you for the work you’ve done and the support of democracy. Living in a free city (it used to be, at least :D) on the edge of China, I understand it is of paramount importance to let people of the same cause see each other, so that people will know that common values are truly common and they are not the odd ones out. Otherwise, the loneliness would make us doubt what we believe and corrupt our souls. That is the reason for dictators’ fondness of censorship, not to make people stupid, but to disconnect them from each other. For that, I would like to pay my utmost respect to you, your colleagues and the members of press around the globe for defending the freedom to see each other. It reinforces our beliefs, and gives us the courage that we need to carry on and face this extremely wicked, shockingly evil and vile dictatorship.

The suffering of Hong Kong may continue for a while, but as we know we are not alone, I believe that justice and freedom will prevail. So, no need to worry about us. We are well trained for this by having a long history of being colonized (ha ha! And God save the queen!). Hong Kong people are resourceful and strong. And with your love, we will keep calm and carry on.

Sir, I wish you good health and all the best in continuing to publish for the people of Westmount. I forget where I read it, but I vaguely recall there was a line from a movie that goes “the only way to protect freedom of the press is to press.” It does not matter for how long, but as long as you do, you are already protecting the free world. Give yourself some credit. :D.

My warmest regards to the team of the Westmount Independent.

JOSEPH, A STRANGER & FRIEND
FROM HONG KONG

Editor’s note: I am straining my eyes a bit as I peer west across North America, through the Rockies and then over the Pacific. But I see you, Joseph. Your friend, David

HONG KONG UNDER SIEGE

I deeply appreciated your editorial entitled, “Hong Kong: you have friends” (August 20, p. 6), which was carefully worded with equal parts of humour and sympathy. I immediately shared it on Facebook, with a warning that one would find a Kleenex tissue handy. As expected, together with some thumbs-up reactions, several crying-face emojis appeared on my post.

Unfortunately, I am sorry to provide a sad update on the status of Hong Kong. Since the publication of the editorial, the situation has taken a very bad turn. The city has practically deteriorated into a police state, with the cops doing the bidding of the Hong Kong government (and by extension, Beijing) for political purposes. On the night of August 31, as another massive demonstration was winding down, the police rushed into a train (which is a part of the mass transit system) to indiscriminately beat the passengers, believing that demonstrators were among them. Pepper spray was released into the train, which had minimum ventilation. The station was locked down so that nobody could escape. Likewise, first-aid personnel and reporters could not enter. Numerous ordinary citizens were injured in this state-sponsored attack, and many were arrested. All of this was driven by the desire of the government to silence any opposition.

This was unprecedented. It was a first in Hong Kong, which prided itself on low crime rates and a superb police force – until recently. In this reign of terror, residents are stripped of basic human rights, facing the possibility of being arrested and tortured at any hour. The government pressures employers to encourage employees to tell on each other with regard to their political activism or viewpoint. In short, this leading international financial centre has descended into a city under siege.

While you are not encouraging Hong Kong people to do this or that; you are being encouraging. For this, Hong Kong people are forever grateful.

FLORENCE CHAN (FORMER HONG KONG RESIDENT), LOS ALTOS, CALIFORNIA

HONG KONG’S FREEDOMS THREATENED

In answer to Emily Mo’s letter stating “Hong Kong’s freedoms alive, dialogue prep has started” (August 27, p. 6), Hong Kong’s freedoms are NOT alive. They are very seriously threatened. That is why there have been millions of Hong Kongers protesting the rule of Carrie Lam and her proposition that those who campaign for changes be extradited to mainland China. There, they would be tried by “kangaroo courts” unlike the just and fair courts of Hong Kong. Why extradition?

Emily Mo says that the large print headline “STAND WITH HONG KONG UNTIL DAWN” is “misleading.” Mo has signed her letter as the director of the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office in Toronto. Has she personally witnessed these mass protests?

Correction

City environmental coordinator Patricia Racette’s family name was incorrectly written in the story “50 more apt. buildings to be offered composting in Oct.” (September 3, p. 3).

I happen to believe the journalists who have been reporting in The Globe and in the National Post. They have sent photographs that depict the thousands of umbrellas, the water cannon, the rubber bullets, the tear gas and the police brutality. This is quite the opposite of the picture she paints with her statement that “the freedom to protest and freedom of the press are alive and well.”

How can this be true when the CEO of Cathay Pacific Airlines was forced to resign because he allowed at least four Cathay Pacific pilots to protest in the marches?

The dismissals were at the behest of Beijing. Is this freedom?

Yes, Carrie Lam has finally agreed to completely withdraw the bill to extradite activists to mainland China for trial, no longer just shelving it.

But this unrest has been brewing in Hong Kong for years; for example, the similar strong protest in 2014 when Hong Kongers took to the streets in a protest that was put down by the government.

Carrie Lam’s extradition bill was “the straw that broke the camel’s back.”

The Guardian Weekly of August 23 said that “under the terms of the agreement by which the former British colony was returned to Chinese control in 1997 ..... The semi-autonomous region was meant to maintain ‘a high degree of autonomy’ through an independent judiciary, a free press and an open market economy; the framework known as ‘one country, two systems.’

“Beijing’s influence over Hong Kong has grown in recent years. Activists have been jailed and pro-democracy lawmakers disqualified from running for office. Independent booksellers have disappeared from the city and shown up in court facing charges on mainland China.

“Police have violently clashed directly with protesters, repeatedly firing tear gas and rubber bullets.

“Underlining the movement is a push for full democracy in the city, whose leader is chosen by a committee dominated by a pro-Beijing establishment rather than by direct elections.”

With the withdrawal of the extradition bill, the protesters have vowed to keep the movement going until their five core demands are met .... among them an enquiry into police tactics and amnesty for all those arrested.

Have they endured all this to go back to square one?

Mo can surely see that when millions of people agitate for 13 weeks, something is clearly very wrong indeed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MORE THAN A SOCIAL WORKER NEEDED FOR FIRST NATIONS AT CABOT SQUARE

In reference to last week's story regarding Cabot Square (September 3, p. 1), I am not in agreement with city council's approach to the homeless situation, especially as it affects the First Nations aboriginal populations who frequently visit this park.

Subsidization of a social worker with a $20,000 cap is not tenable. What many seek in Cabot Square is adequate shelter, meals, aid, amongst other things. We should heed their needs with kindness, love and understanding, rather than considering them as troublesome.

May I remind all that our country was founded by the First Nation people and we should thank them for the development of our great nation. Rather than appreciating the knowledge they wish to share with everyone, we have treated them horribly in the past by our acts and misdeeds, namely residential schools, the "scoop children" episode, forced displacement and many other events.

Before the municipality of Westmount was founded, one of the early residents, Mr. Hurtubise, allowed aboriginals onto his land and traded furs with them, and look how he prospered as the result.

I have often talked to many of the First Nations aboriginals in Cabot Square and, understandably, they feel marginalized. Affordable shelters, cost of daily food and survival are some of the daily struggles they face.

Numerous visitors to the park have elderly or children in various hospitals nearby and others feel that Cabot Square is the only quasi family that they have. All they ask from us is respect and kindness. I think we owe them that much.

In the summer, Cabot Square hosts numerous aboriginal events each Friday and warmly extends an invitation for everyone to partake.

Also the coffee shop in Cabot Square is operated by First Nations people, and they are always polite and helpful. I invite everyone to eat at this coffee shop and/or participate in the various aboriginal events in Cabot Square next summer and see how much fun it is.

If we took the time to learn an aboriginal language like Mohawk, Cree, Inuit or others; perhaps if we listened to these fine people more often; joined in the many events on Aboriginal Day or other First Nations holidays and helped them out with kindness, you would see that the aboriginals who are guests of Cabot Square are really decent people deep down.

Alcoholism is a social issue some First Nation families face daily, but as citizens of Westmount, we should not castigate all of the homeless people of Cabot Square.

That is why underwriting the cost of a social worker is of limited scope. Certainly, as decent human beings, the people of Cabot Square deserve much better than this from all of us.

In conclusion, I can appreciate the difficulties that mayor and council had in exploring the various humane options and sincerely believe that a social worker was the most optimal. However, if the people in Cabot Square were invited for consultations, I am sure other suitable options would have been discovered that would have been far more conducive to everyone.

DAVID STERN, VICTORIA AVE.

SCOOTER RULES NEED TO BE CLEAR, PUBLICIZED AND ENFORCED

With all due respect, I request that the rules and regulations, and obligations and responsibilities, of Lime scooter operators be posted in a clear and concise manner on the city of Westmount's website, the bulletin boards of the city's community centres, and all middle and high schools within the city's boundaries, as well as at scooter parking stations.

It is quite a task to access the information regarding what the law says and what Lime requires.

I have encountered operators who do not meet the age requirement of 18. Many 14-year-olds with the relevant app are operating these vehicles. They believe it is completely lawful.

In addition, these children and the legal operators are using these vehicles on the sidewalks and in Westmount Park.

Clarification is not only necessary, but urgent.

As a pedestrian, I am perturbed that since the arrival of these vehicles, my passage and use of the sidewalks and of Westmount Park are obstructed.

My safety and security are indeed challenged as operators are abandoning the scooters recklessly in the middle of sidewalks and park paths. I do not wish to step onto the street or someone's lawn to avoid them, especially when I am using my cart to haul groceries home.

Do members of city council not realize how many of their fellow citizens use canes, walkers, wheelchairs, baby strollers and require safe, unobstructed passage on their city's sidewalks?

The enforcement of the rules and regulations re: scooters and the operation of them is the responsibility of the police.

Therefore, with great appreciation of their resources and energies required in perhaps more significant matters, I request that there be an intensive campaign to encourage scooter enthusiasts to adhere and to comply with the rules and regulations.

I also wish to speak of the non-use of appropriate helmets by Lime operators. Both the Société d'assurance d'automobile du Québec (SAAQ) and Lime, in whatever information I was able to access, state unequivocally that helmets are mandatory. Nevertheless, it has been my experience to see unhelmeted operators 99 times out of 100.

To save lives, car drivers and their passengers must wear seatbelts. Then, in the same vein and really for their own safety and benefit, why are scooter operators not being reproached and restrained from this unlawful practice?

Pedestrian lights set for 3 points on The Blvd., Cedar

By LAUREEN SWEENEY

Crossing the street is about to become easier at three major Westmount intersections following council’s decision September 3 to install pedestrian lights on The Boulevard, at Victoria and at Mount Pleasant, as well as on Cedar and Mount Pleasant.

Mayor Christina Smith said the locations are in the area of schools: “a great way to provide a safer walk to school.”

“The objective is to have this in place this fall,” according to city director general Benoit Hurtubise. “There will be a start-up meeting with the contractor (this) week and we will know more on the timelines afterwards.”

The lights are to be installed at a maximum cost of $171,515 on a contract awarded to Installume Inc. This was the lowest of three conforming bids and more than half the amount quoted by Néolect at $361,730.

As a result, 31 signed up to participate on the first day in June, “far more than we expected,” St. Louis said.

Since then, others have joined in and brought friends and the numbers have grown to closer to 50. The sessions are free of charge, and include coaching and get-togethers.

Among the participants are residents of Manoir Westmount, Place Kensington and Westmount One as well as members of Contactivity Seniors’ Centre, Centre Greene and the New Hope Seniors’ Centre in NDG.

Promotes health, friendship
Not only does the activity help promote physical health, according to St. Louis, but the environment provides an accessible and safe place for the participants to make new friends and gather at the clubhouse for coffee, tea and cookies.
“Both lawn bowling and croquet are easy to learn,” he added, and can lead the seniors to participate in senior-oriented competitions.
And will the club’s outreach program continue after this season? “We originally set a finishing date of August 28, but due to the success, we decided to extend it to September 25. It will continue through next year at the very least.”

Centennial Academy is a model of inclusive education for Quebec. Our mission is to empower young people to master their learning challenges, graduate from high school in 5 years and become autonomous, resilient, life-long learners.

expectations for all of our students: measures that benefit all learners, regardless of their particular learning profile.

We work as a cohesive, consistent and collaborative team

At Centennial, our entire team works together to achieve our mission, our vision and our values.

A unique and proven approach

The approach we have developed at Centennial allows us to achieve extraordinary results: although 90% of our high school students have a learning challenge, more than 90% of them graduate with their DES in five years. Above all, our approach is a paradigm shift: a fundamentally different way of thinking about learning challenges and how to best teach children who have them.

We continuously shape our school to fit the needs of our students

At Centennial, we strive to create an engaging, supportive and inclusive learning environment that benefits all students. We are early adopters of the Universal Design for Learning (UDL) principles, which aims to make learning possible for the largest diversity of learning styles, by removing unnecessary obstacles and creating optimal learning conditions both inside and outside the classroom. In practical terms, this means implementing a set of consistent systems, structures and routines for our entire school, and establishing clear and predictable rules and

What makes our approach work so well is that it is applied consistently, cohesively, equally and universally, by all of our staff members. We collect and analyze data about our students on a regular basis and we come together as a multidisciplinary team to solve problems, support learning, and help our students succeed. We use a common language, common processes and common strategies, which ensures the consistent delivery of excellence.

What Place Do Values Have in High School Education?

In an increasingly competitive world, it is the values instilled in our girls that make them stand out from the crowd.

Which is the best high school for my daughter? Where will she thrive, academically and personally? And, most importantly, how will we know we have made the right choice? At The Sacred Heart School of Montreal, the feeling of “knowing” you and your daughter have made the right choice, often comes when you step into our school and feel welcomed, like family.

Values-based education

As the only all girls English Catholic high school in Montreal, with a mission to nurture the mind, body and spirit of each student in a supportive and caring environment, Sacred Heart is the natural fit for families that believe in a values-based education. Some of those values, shared by Sacred Heart schools around the world, include deep respect for the religions of the world; teaching strategies that recognize the individual needs of every student; a life-long commitment to community service; a safe and welcoming environment in which each person is valued, cared for and respected; and a place where everyone shows respect, acceptance and concern for themselves and others.

Global Network

The Sacred Heart School of Montreal was established in 1861, and is part of a worldwide network of schools. There are currently over 150 Sacred Heart network schools, in 41 countries. This provides unique opportunities to our students, such as Summer Service Projects, International Exchange Program, and being part of alumni associations not just locally, but nationally and internationally.

Tuition and Financial Aid

In order to maintain economic diversity at the school, Sacred Heart offers a robust financial aid program. The school awarded $300,000 in bursaries in 2018-2019 to 20 percent of families. The average bursary was $6,400. This financial support is made possible through the generosity of current and past families, alumnae, faculty and staff, and friends of Sacred Heart.

Grade 12

The Sacred Heart School of Montreal is the first all girls school in Montreal, and one of a select few high schools in the entire province, to offer a Grade 12 program. Students can choose between a Commerce, a Social Sciences, and a Science stream. At the end of the program, students receive a Grade 12 diploma (OSSD) from the Ontario Ministry of Education, enabling them to apply to universities in Quebec, other Canadian provinces, the United States, and abroad.

ECS, Redefining the Status Quo in Education

Education is at a pivotal point in human evolution, moving from an information age to one of artificial intelligence and augmented reality. The future of learning and work will be vastly different as a result.

Adapting to this rapid change requires a new skill set—one that has not traditionally been addressed in schools, but that is now an educational imperative in our high-speed, wireless world. If a girl is being taught, and assessed the same way today as she was yesterday, then she is absolutely not being prepared for her rapidly changing tomorrow. An entrepreneurial mindset will be one of the most valuable assets a girl can have.

Today, school needs to offer highly rigorous academics that are strongly anchored in values. At Miss Edgar’s and Miss Cramp’s School (ECS), our goal is not only to change what a girl knows, but more critically, who she is and what she can do as a result of her learning experiences. Given our founding energy, this is in our DNA; Miss Edgar and Miss Cramp believed that education is the most powerful agent for social change. Grounded in 110 years of academic excellence, ECS continues to redefine the status quo in education by addressing the power and positioning of young women. ECS, then and now, believes in change for and by girls.

This September, ECS will unveil a first-of-its-kind entrepreneurial platform allowing girls to address tomorrow’s problems today. With the help of mentors and strategic partners, each girl will have the opportunity to explore her passions, develop her talents and acquire the skill set she needs to emerge into the world as the entrepreneur of her own future.

Her voice and her talents matter. Subjects alone—no matter how superbly taught—are no longer enough to prepare a girl to find personal wellness and professional stride. Come to our launch on Thursday, September 19, or to our Open House on Sunday, September 22, to find out how we are harnessing interdisciplinary learning to ignite girls’ entrepreneurial spirit.

THE MOST FRANCOPHONE OF ENGLISH SCHOOLS

No compromise. These are two important words that perfectly describe The Study's unique mother-tongue French and English education program.

In fact, students attending this highly respected all-girls school in Westmount receive their program instruction in both mother-tongue French and English on equal footing. Not to be content with a simple second language programme or a language immersion programme, The Study offers 50% of instruction in French at the primary level, and 40% at the secondary level. In fact, according to many of our francophone parents, The Study's French mother-tongue program compares favourably to that of the best French schools in Quebec.

Repeatedly, in parent surveys, both francophone and anglophone parents indicate, that by far, their primary reason for choosing The Study is the unique mother-tongue bilingual education programme.

And, an eligibility certificate for instruction in English (K to 11) is not required, so The Study can continue to maintain a strong and diverse student body from elementary school to end of high school, and remain true to its mission — a mission that includes fine scholarship and the love of learning. Because “What really matters for The Study is that we continue to provide an education that prepares young women to be at their best in both Quebec and global society.”

Another reason for choosing The Study, and one that has been emphasized repeatedly in parent satisfaction scores, is The Study's small class sizes.

“Smaller class size creates an environment that is both stimulating and warm, in which teachers can really give individual attention to each girl,” says Effie Koufalis, mother of a Study student.

The Priory School

Happy Children Learn Best

They Got It Right

Believing that a child's first learning years are the most important, in 1947 The Priory School's Founding Mothers, Frances Ballantyne and Alphonsine Paré-Howlett, succeeded in developing a school far ahead of its time. Their Priory Mission & Philosophy: "...to nurture each child's inherent curiosity, develop an enthusiasm for learning and encourage intellectual and creative initiative, preparing the child to be a responsible, tolerant and self-confident global citizen. An environment that is nurturing, secure, caring and aware of individual needs is the key to future success."

For over 70 years, generations of "Priory Family" members -teachers, staff and parents- have put this child-centred mission into practice. Experts in elementary education, the current team of faculty knows that these crucial elementary school years form the first impression in children's minds of what a school is supposed to be. Students are encouraged to not only be excellent problem solvers and critical thinkers, but also be warm human beings of moral integrity.

A Gift in Every Child

The Priory provides diverse opportunities for all students to flourish, whatever their interest.

Lovers of the performing arts take the stage during a major spring drama production that rivals those of high schools. An enhanced music program provides band ensemble experience to Grade 5 and 6 students and performance opportunities at multiple concerts for all students K-6. "The Priory Panthers" basketball and soccer teams for boys and girls regularly compete against other Montreal schools, and intramural teams keep the sporty active throughout the year. The Priory's annual STEAM Maker-Space Fair, Robotics Club and "Expeditions" Enrichment Program give students opportunities to explore the world of science and technology and share their discoveries with the community.

At The Priory, teachers and staff believe that every child is gifted, and it is their job to help each student discover their gift.

Igniting Positive Change

When a group of visiting Headmasters and other leading educators from the organization CAIS (Canadian Accredited Independent Schools) made their most recent visit, one thing that struck them as unique and impressive, was the sense of leadership that was evident throughout the school. They stated that The Priory should be commended on its "extensive and inclusive leadership program.

Leadership is evident in 100% of student experiences, in a multitude of school projects, committees and events, as well as local and global stewardship projects."

Students at The Priory learn quickly that they do not have to wait until they're older to help others in need; positive change in their school, local and global communities can begin at any age. Throughout the year, students participate in a number of community service initiatives, learning a sense of responsibility and the joy of giving.

An Extension of the Family

From the home-cooked meals that see classes eating together and sharing the responsibilities of serving and cleaning to the tradition of reading buddies that pairs older students with the youngest emerging readers, the sense of family is palpable and real.

The Priory's inviting family atmosphere has become a hallmark at The Priory, allowing children and parents to feel safe and responsible for one another while learning to be the best that they can be.

Parents + School = Amazing Teams

The Priory Family, of course, extends to the parents, who are an integral part of Priory life. Being a small school that appreciates parent involvement, there are many opportunities for parents to be involved, from reading books during library sessions, organizing special school events with The Priory Parents Association, sharing specialized knowledge in the classroom, volunteering on field trips and sports teams, fundraising for school needs on The Priory School Foundation Board, and overseeing The Priory's Mission on the Priory School Board of Directors.

When parents are involved at The Priory, it models great community involvement that encourages students to likewise get involved and make positive changes. For the parents' benefit, new friendships are made that last a lifetime. From its humble beginnings as "The Little Red Schoolhouse on the Boulevard", The Priory has been fortunate to grow and expand with the help of amazing teams of parents and staff. As The Priory Head of School, Christian St-Pierre, reminds students each day, "together, anything is possible."

THE PRIORY SCHOOL

Happy Children Learn Best

As a school, The Priory succeeds at meeting the academic needs of its students with an engaging curriculum that emphasizes deeper learning which is meaningful to their lives. But as an extension of the family, The Priory also meets the social and emotional needs of each child. This whole-child approach means that each student feels secure, engaged, known and loved. The result when children look forward to going to school and form positive memories of learning and growing: A place where "Happy Children Learn Best".

A World Beyond Academics: LCC's Unparalleled Co-Curricular Programs

Nestled in a picturesque Montreal campus with its red brick buildings and green fields, Lower Canada College is rightly proud of its long academic tradition, many eminent graduates and sterling reputation as one of Canada's top educational institutions. Parents who choose LCC, whether for Junior, Middle or Senior School, or for its Pre-University program, know that their children will benefit from exceptional teachers and a forward-looking curriculum. Just as remarkable is the breadth of activities that extend far beyond the classroom walls.

LCC's impressive sports facilities include two full playing fields and a practice field, a modern fully-equipped fitness centre, an indoor ice rink and four gymnasiums. While the gyms are festooned with banners from innumerable championships won over the decades in about 20 sports, including basketball, volleyball, tennis, football, swimming, soccer and far beyond, the focus for both girls and boys is on refining skills, team participation and fair play as much as it is on performance and success. As Director of Athletics Chris Viau is quick to point out, "the priority is growing through sport. The camaraderie, the friendships – these are the things they'll never forget."

For students inclined towards the arts, LCC has many worlds to explore. Budding actors can begin by joining the Junior School musical, a tradition that goes back more than 35 years. Plays in Middle and Senior School boost confidence and foster creativity both for those who choose to shine on stage and those who prefer to experiment with lighting, sound, directing, and more. Young comedians will even find an improv club that encourages quick thinking and teamwork. Venues range from a black box theatre to a state-of-the-art auditorium that seats 540.

Nothing lights up all areas of the brain like playing and reading music, and LCC has plenty on offer: in addition to a variety of orchestras, young musicians can explore the Junior School choir, the Middle School glee club, and several jazz bands large and small. Those drawn to the visual arts, meanwhile, can pursue their imaginations in Art Club, participate in the Maker and Design Fair, or display their creations in the school's annual vernissage, shown in a professional gallery.

The school also continues to emphasize communication and leadership skills. An active student council and many speaker series and conferences offer ample opportunity for bolstering self-expression and confidence. LCC is the most active school in Quebec in the Duke of Edinburgh's Award program for self-development and leadership, and a proud member of Round Square, a worldwide association of some 180 schools that encourages students to push beyond academic excellence.

Grade 11 student Kirsten Hardiman has taken full advantage of these programs. "In Middle School, I completed over 100 hours of community service, including many visits to the Mackay Centre School. I also spent eight weeks in South Africa on a student exchange, and last year travelled to Peru on a once-in-a-lifetime trip to attend a Round Square conference. If I had to sum up all of these experiences in one word, it would be: inspiration!"

Headmaster Christopher Shannon says that he is constantly amazed by the number of LCC sports, clubs and activities. From coding and robotics to the Green Team and Model UN, there are countless exciting roads to travel. "We feel so strongly that these co-curricular programs are essential to our students' fullest development in mind, body and heart. They keep everyone engaged, allow them to try new things, and stretch their boundaries in a safe environment."

Villa Sainte-Marcelline: A tradition of pride and excellence!

Your daughter is unique...
Villa Sainte-Marcelline has a special place for her!

For close to 60 years, Villa Sainte-Marcelline has been committed to excellence in education. Established in Westmount since 1959, the school's educational mission was founded on a long tradition of teaching girls going back to the 1850s in Milan, Italy. The forward-thinking founder of the Marcelline schools established the mandate of focusing on the individual, on the valued relationship between teacher and students, on preparing the students for the challenges of a changing world and on offering all students a comprehensive curriculum to allow them the freedom to pursue their ambitions.

There are countless reasons why this small French-language private school on Upper-Belmont Avenue in Westmount is the preferred choice for parents looking for a solid well-rounded education for their daughter. The desire to achieve high standards enables our students to go on to study in the best French and English-language colleges and universities in Québec and abroad. Marcelline alumnae have the tools needed to become successful professionals in the career of their choice. Our students benefit from excellent study skills, broad cultural knowledge, a comprehensive education in science, the humanities and languages, and an international Marcelline network.

Villa Sainte-Marcelline offers:

- CONTINUITY – Kindergarden to CEGEP (Collège International des Marcellines) housed on the same campus;
- PEP (Programme d'Études Personnalisé) – Personalised study programs in sports, music or dance for students who want to practice an extra-curricular elite sport, dance or music program while continuing to benefit from an outstanding and rich curriculum;

- SCIENCE – Our students are provided with an enriched, encompassing science program where they learn to apply scientific methods and to develop projects in both pure and applied sciences notably in biochemistry. Students are provided with all the essential tools required to be admitted to the top science programs, CEGEPS, and universities when they graduate;
- TRILINGUALISM – Enriched advanced language classes are incorporated into the curriculum. By the end of secondary schooling, all students have had the opportunity to obtain their English Language Arts certification, DELE certification in Spanish, and to pass the French BREVET and BAC exams.
- ARTS and CULTURE – In addition to our very rich curriculum in history and literature, all students have the opportunity to participate in drama productions, musicals, writing competitions and poetry competitions;
- SPORTS – Competitive extra-mural teams in a variety of sports: basketball, volleyball, soccer, flag football, hockey, and track and field. In recent years, VSM has won several pennants as league champs in volleyball, flag football and futsal;
- NATIONAL and INTERNATIONAL EXPOSURE – At the beginning of each year, all secondary students take part in an educational class trip to one of the following locations: Charlevoix, Toronto, Gaspésie, Boston. Students in secondary 1, 3 and 5 are also offered cultural and linguistic exchange trips to expand their horizons while discovering Ancient Rome, traditional Costa Rica and Bavaria, Germany;

- A RICH AND FULFILLING STUDENT LIFE – There are many opportunities to get involved in the school life and in the community with volunteer work and awareness-raising activities throughout the year;
- GUIDANCE – A solid network of dedicated teachers, families and alumnae make up the Marcelline community. They strive to support and encourage the students throughout their endeavours;
- PREPARATION FOR SECONDARY SCHOOL – It is now possible to register your daughter in Grade 5, offering her the best preparation for secondary school at Villa Sainte-Marcelline. Please note that there are no entrance exams required for Villa Grade 6 students to attend secondary at the Villa.

Homeless now camping outside former Open Door shelter

By MARTIN C. BARRY

Nine months after The Open Door homeless persons' day centre at Dorchester and Atwater shut and relocated to the McGill ghetto, there are signs that homelessness is on the rise on the eastern edge of Westmount.

As reported by the Westmount Independent June 18 (p. 15), squatters at that time had established an encampment on Atwater Ave. south of Dorchester Blvd. behind a pillar supporting an overpass for the Ville Marie expressway.

On September 5, it was evident that another encampment had taken root less than a block north on Atwater, on the grounds outside St. Stephen's Church, where the Open Door was located for around three decades.

An outdoor living space set up there included a makeshift sleeping area with an improvised bed and a tarpaulin lean-to covering it.

As a reporter from the Independent stood nearby, a man – who appeared to be the occupant – cursed as he complained that his belongings, some of which were piled in a shopping cart, were being tampered with.

Shortly after, he disappeared around a corner at the vacant church building to retrieve a shovel and broom. He then began to clean up a pile of garbage that had been dumped onto the ground out of a trash container.

In the meantime, further down Atwater at the other encampment, that site (which is the property of the Quebec Ministry of Transport) still appeared to be occupied last week by a man using construction fencing to create a protective enclosure.

Persons who appear to be homeless or transient were also spotted loitering on Atwater Ave. outside Alexis Nihon Plaza, as well as in the doorways of vacant businesses on St. Catherine St. in Westmount.

The Open Door served a clientele of transients and homeless, some of whom may have been turned away by other shelters that wouldn't tolerate intoxication or behaviour.

The Open Door closed after St. Stephen's Church was sold for $2.4 million to a developer who plans to convert the church and adjacent rectory into residences.

Remembering with music

September 1 around 6 pm, the sombre sounds of cello music drifted through the trees in Westmount Park, near the lagoon. Amateur musicians Florian Fintelmann (left, visiting from Boston) and Thomas Minde were playing in remembrance of Minde's father. The music was a solemn slow movement by Shostakovich, an upbeat duet by Vivaldi and a Bach solo sonata played by Minde, followed by a poignant rendition of "The Swan" by Saint-Saëns. A small audience gathered in silence to listen, a spontaneous gathering of strangers lost in their own memories.

Scarborough Fair in Westmount Park

Tenor saxophonist Ou Xin Min was playing for approximately 12 people when the Independent caught up with him August 27 in Westmount Park. Communication was difficult, as the native of Tian Jin near Beijing in northern China and his audience spoke Chinese only. In the international language of music, however, Min was playing the traditional folk song "Scarborough Fair," popularised by Ewan MacColl and Peggy Seeger and later by Simon and Garfunkel. A bilingual boy arrived a bit later and he was able to give the Independent the information in this caption.

Beer Review – The Connoisseur and the Philistine

Cheval Blanc

809 Ontario St. E.

DAVID PRICE, The Philistine: Beer drinker
Ideal beer: stronger-than-average lager, even if it's commercial Canadian beer. He dislikes too much hops flavour or aroma in beer (i.e. most India pale ales or IPAs), and does not like roasted malts (e.g. stouts). He also dislikes wheat beers, which remind him of toothpaste, which he doesn't normally consume, and candy canes, which he would not drink if ever they were liquified.
Favourite beer: Sapporo, or St. Ambrose Pale Ale if he's looking for something with a bit more aroma and flavour.

GREG DUNNING, The Connoisseur: Beer drinker, homebrewer, and beer hunter.
Ideal beer: The one that is manufactured by people who care more about the beer than the money and it depends on the season.
Favourite beer: for summer 2019 – Vox Populi Kettle Sour (3%) and Simple Malt Sorbet Berliner aux Framboises (4.5%)

July 31, 2019

Cheval Blanc has been around since 1924 as a tavern owned by the Denys family. In 1981, Jérôme, the grandson, inherited the tavern and six years later, he obtained the very first artisanal permit in Quebec where beer is produced and consumed on the same site. In 1987, this was so revolutionary that the Régie des alcools, des courses et des jeux had to invent a new permit called “Consommation sur Place,” since the only permit it granted at the time was for industrial breweries. For a few years, this was my go-to because it was the only bar that a home brewer could patronize and be happy. In 1990, I met the legendary Jérôme Denys at the Festibière de Chambly and asked him if he was ever going to bottle his great beer so I could drink it at home (consommation à domicile) and he said never. In 1992, he began bottling under the Cheval Blanc brand and sold only at the SAQ. By 1995, other microbreweries were in the game (McAuslan, Boréale, etc) and Cheval Blanc opened a brewery to fulfill demand of the dépanneurs that were slowly stocking these “weird” beers from the microbreweries. Sticking to its roots, Cheval Blanc still calls itself a “Brasseur artisan & bar.”

THE CONNOISSEUR: Framboise (5%) – Summer wheat beer specialty
My summer starter is always a sour. There were two on the menu and I chose the raspberry over the 3.1 percent Sour IPA. It's great that you can now get some flavourful, low-alcohol alternatives as they are the perfect way to begin a session in the summertime. Like it's inspiration from Belgium, this framboise is a sour/sweet balance and trending sour. It is so light on the hops that it is unnecessary to list the IBUs (international bitterness units). In Germany, this is brewed simply as pure beer, using only permitted ingredients with varying degrees of wheat up to 50 percent, in which you optionally can add woodruff or raspberry syrup at time of consumption. The Belgians and Cheval Blanc just toss tradition aside and elect to condition the beer on organic raspberries and serve it as is. This is an excellent example of the Belgian method.

THE PHILISTINE: Svetlý Lezák (4.8%) – pale Czech lager
Oh boy! This is a very different place from our usual destinations! There is lager. There are lagers – several options to choose from. And yet I am here with Greg. Good company and beers that I expect to like? It is disorienting, like coming across tasty, low-calorie food. But let's get drinking. My first choice was a Czech lager, and it was very good. It was silky, which is my way of describing beers with a bit of body. Many people conclude that lager lovers like light beers. This conclusion is not correct. Light beers are not silky; they are watery. But that's not an issue here. I also found it to have a bit of that lager taste, once again something not found in light beers. A very good start.

THE CONNOISSEUR: Blonde – Pilsner Allemande (5%) – Lager
I had no doubt that this lager was going to be really satisfying and I wanted to taste it early before my palate would be drenched with bigger beers. Truly hard not to chug. Full malt body, perfectly bitter. Elegant all the way down. I'm hoping that my favourite lager hunter makes this his new favourite beer. If it weren't for my curiosity to try different beer, I could stay with this one all night. The hockey room would widely approve of this one.

THE PHILISTINE: Blonde – Pilsner Allemande (5%) – Lager
Let the good times roll. My notes for this second beer are almost identical to those for the first: “Good body. Not too much taste. Very good.” Please remember that for someone like me who works to avoid odd (as I consider them) flavours and aromas, “not too much taste” is high praise. I have never thought that about an IPA or a stout.

THE CONNOISSEUR: Ambrée – Ale

Rousse (5%) – Ale
I chose this beer next because it has the most boring name on the menu to see if it would be boring. Smooth, easy and malty with moderate hop flavour. This is simple beer made well; not as easy as that sounds. These days, it's a welcome sight to have traditional beer on the menu. I think my colleague could easily substitute this one when he exhausts the lager menu.

THE PHILISTINE: Kellerbier (4.5%) – German lager
According to Wikipedia, “Kellerbier is a type of German beer which is typically neither clarified nor pasteurized... The term ‘kellerbier’ literally translates as ‘cellar

Gladstone for sale

The Gladstone restaurant and pub on St. Catherine St. at Gladstone Ave. seen here September 8, are for sale. PHOTO: INDEPENDENT.

beer,' referring to its cool lagering temperatures. ...In comparison with most of today's filtered and pasteurized lagers, kellerbier contains more of its original brewing yeast, as well as vitamins, held in suspension. As a result, it is distinctly cloudy, and is described by German producers as naturtrüb (naturally cloudy)."

Vitamins in my beer? I must drink more.

Seriously though, this is a style that I generally like. I usually find it to have a bit more taste than even the more flavourful lagers, kind of like a mild version of a red ale or rousse. I did not find this one distinctive, but it was good.

THE CONNOISSEUR: Quench APA (5.5%) – New England IPA

Really light for the usual big-beer American IPA. It's unfiltered, which gives it the body, but it's not the hop bomb aroma that we usually encounter. I was kind of ready for that, so I am a little disappointed. I know it's hard to believe but it is hard these days to find an APA without lactose added and it is nice to have this style without this adjunct for a change. The reason we distinguish the new England style from the rest of America is that it is "juicy," like lemons and mangos, again due to the hops, not from any actual fruit or juice, although some IPA brewers have started adding juice purée in the conditioning tank.

THE PHILISTINE: Polotmavé (5%) – red Czech lager

More lager! This one was very good too. Sometimes the brewer of red beers overdo things on the flavour and aroma front and start to get into brown ale/stout territory. Not here. Again, Cheval Blanc achieved the Philistine's equivalent of three Michelin stars: "Not too much taste," say my notes. Does this bar rent rooms?

THE CONNOISSEUR: Stout (4%) – Oatmeal stout ale

I'm writing this note and I've already finished it. You can't drink this style any-time without comparing it to Guinness. It's a little heavier in the body than Guinness, which is my preference at a session's conclusion. I actually noted that it is better than Guinness. Am I drunk? Well, maybe a little. I challenge anybody who loves Guinness to give this one a try.

THE PHILISTINE: Ambrée (5%)

This one lost me a bit. I did not like the taste. It was very caramelly and had what I call "a ruby taste." What can I mean? Maybe slight cherry like? I often like amber ales, but not this one.

THE CONNOISSEUR: Rancho Tango (5%) – Belgian Farmhouse ale

I've now moved to Cheval Blanc's aged-in-barrel and bottle inventory, where beer is aged at least two years and is available in limited quantities. You would think this one is wine, based on its looks and aroma. It's sour and smooth and in between wine and beer. A good option for a wine drinker who wants all the taste without the 12 – 15% ABV. It's really not beer; truly a different drink.

Our Vermont delegate summarized it perfectly, "It's Belgian, it's on its own."

THE PHILISTINE: Rancho Tango (5%) – Belgian Farmhouse ale

I don't know what I was thinking when I tried this one. (Although it was a taster, not a pint, so perhaps I'm not that stupid.) "All the bad characteristics of a white wine [mixed] with a light beer," say my notes – sort of. The original text is actually a bit ruder. But I knew that going in. Beer is more than a spectrum. It is a three-dimensional universe with so many styles virtually any taste can be found. It's no big deal if a style or two, or ten, are not for me.

THE CONNOISSEUR: Ponette Argousier (7.6%) – Belgian Farmhouse ale

Since I have not been hitting high alcohol beer all night, I can squeeze this one in. I can't resist all the bottle options they have, which aren't just private imports but aged offerings made here that do not cost $40. I could not distinguish this farmhouse ale from the previous one, so I asked our server, who was of course named Gabriel. The running joke is that we are never served by anybody anywhere who name is not Gabrielle or Gabriel. He explains that this ale is totally different because, "It is all about the argousier," which Professor Google says are sea buckthorn berries. What? I have no idea what he is describing. I don't even know if they grow in the sea.

Summary

THE CONNOISSEUR... I hope my beer henchman has enjoyed his time here; three lagers and the traditional styles made exceptionally well. Yes, you read right –

THREE LAGERS. Every beer is designed to be easily consumed without giving up on full flavour or being safe. Cheval Blanc is also "making money" because it isn't buying tons of expensive hops to make incredibly complicated IPAs, which everyone else seems to do. We were able to take advantage of the terrace and enjoy our beverages outside on a super fine evening. It's very hard to get a terrace seat here at this extremely popular neighbourhood brewpub but we lucked out. The interior has never changed; it has the same terrazzo floor and green laminate walls from my days in the early 1990s, and the 1950s judging from pictures – really retro. We've visited several really good craft breweries in the city but this one is really one of the best. If time is short or you can only pick one, this would be it.

THE PHILISTINE: Cheval Blanc proves a few points. Lagers can be done by micro-brewers. Lagers can sit on menus next to aromatic ales without the world ending, or a brewer's street-cred card being revoked. This is probably the best bar for me of all the ones that we have visited. There is beer-flavoured beer here, to steal a phrase from Greg's son, John. So long – for now – and thanks for all the lagers.

Police Report

Public Security identifies suspicious ‘construction worker,’ police arrest him

By MARTIN C. BARRY

A Montreal man who was allegedly impersonating a construction worker at a store being renovated on St. Catherine St. near Wood Ave. was arrested by the Montreal police on August 24 after being deemed suspicious by Westmount Public Security.

According to Station 12 community relations officer Adalbert Pimentel, the male suspect, who was dressed in construction worker clothing, was seen by Westmount public safety officers going in and out of the vacant restaurant several times between 9 and 10:18 am.

“The PSOs found it strange to see this sort of activity on a Saturday morning when there’s normally no construction work,” Pimentel said, noting the business in question was officially closed.

Pimentel said the suspect was seen removing a wooden panel covering a window in order to get in. When the police arrived and questioned him, he claimed to be working for the construction contractor.

However, when the officers asked the suspect a few simple questions, such as the name of his supervisor or the construction company’s phone number, he couldn’t answer to their satisfaction and they decided there were enough doubts to place him under arrest.

The police were able to make a positive identification at the Montreal police’s downtown operational centre on Guy St. A number of tools alleged to have been used by the suspect to break in were seized as evidence.

Wine stolen

A de Maisonneuve Blvd. apartment dweller who did not check his basement locker for nine months found out in August he’d been robbed of more than a dozen bottles of wine and spirits that he kept in storage.

According to Pimentel, some time between November and this past August, thieves made off with 12 bottles of red wine, a bottle of cognac as well as some other bottles containing alcoholic beverages.

The victim, who moved in last November, had placed the bottles in the storage locker at that time.

“When he next went back, the bottles were all gone,” Pimentel said, noting that the victim filed a complaint at Station 12 on August 23. Although he had the only known keys for the locker, there were no signs of a forced break-in.

Front door unlocked, car stolen

Some Grosvenor Ave. residents may have neglected to lock their front door after returning home in the early morning hours of Aug. 27 and probably left themselves vulnerable to an opportunistic thief who stole their car, a wallet and their house key.

After receiving a call from the complainants, officers from Station 12 met them and were told that the car had been left parked in front of the house around 2 am.

“In the morning around 7:30 am, the plaintiff noticed that the car, a black Volkswagen, was missing,” said Pimentel.

The officers questioned the complainant and were told that two car keys, normally kept in a spot inside the home near the front door, were also missing.

As well, a wallet containing credit cards and identification was gone, as was the key to their house.

“There were no signs of infraction,” Pimentel continued. “The plaintiff believes that possibly they forgot to lock the front door, because that would explain how somebody opened the door.”

He suggested it was a crime of opportunity involving a perpetrator going around testing for unlocked front doors.

Bixi, cont'd. from p. 1

$185,000, which the city continued to reject early this year as being too costly (see story April 16, p. 1).

Dan Lambert, president of the Association of Pedestrians and Cyclists of Westmount, who had asked the city to reconsider the need to expand Bixi, said he was pleased the city had reconsidered.

It would “make it easier for more Westmounters to adopt active transportation,” he said.

Bike lights lead to compliance

He also told the council the city’s recently installed bicycle lights and their phasing cycle at the diagonal bike path crossing at de Maisonneuve and Claremont appeared to be increasing cyclist compliance.

“In a survey this morning, 96 percent of cyclists crossed during the bike light,” he said. “You provide safe infrastructure and cyclists will comply.”

The busy intersection previously posted signs informing cyclists they could use the pedestrian cycle but “the print is too small,” Mayor Christina Smith said last year after a council ride-along with Lambert’s group (see story November 27, 2018, p. 1).
